

INTRODUCTION

Congratulations on your next Training Plan purchase! You are now about to embark on an assessment and analysis process that will give you another fully customised training plan that is suitable for your physical profile (strengths and weaknesses), your goals and your timetable.

So we can put together a plan that continues to maximise progress towards your goals, the next step is to complete another short testing session (see below). Once you have completed the testing you then return your results to us via the form linked in the email (along with details of your available facilities etc.). If we already have plan data for you (using the same email address), your coach will also use the comparison between your last assessment and this one when writing your plan.

When you submit your form, you will be asked to select a start date, this will be approximately 2 weeks in the future. If you would like to run one cycle of training immediately into the next, we are happy to do so, but likewise we're very happy for climbers to take a week of unstructured "time off plan" if you feel you also need that. This is because every plan is handwritten and tailored to your individual needs. However, as you have previously had a Lattice Training Plan you will have access to the earliest available start dates.

PREREQUISITES

Before starting another Training Plan you must meet the following prerequisites:

- Be aged 18 or over
- Be uninjured
- Have climbed at least 6b/10+ or V4 in the last year
- Be able to competently use a fingerboard

If you are not competent using a fingerboard, please seek instruction from a local climbing wall coach, until you feel competent to complete finger testing safely. You must be able to comfortably hang at bodyweight for 10 sec from a 20 mm edge.
